9. BOARD CHAIR REPORT

Chair Sharpe provided an overview of the September Board Work Session that was held in Seattle. She noted that the topics of discussion included a joint conversation with the President’s leadership team about the strategic plan, a board self-assessment, and re-evaluation of the board sub-committees. She said that the board discussed the creation of an Academic and Student Affairs Committee. Sharpe also detailed changes of trustee assignment within the sub-committees that include having the student trustee participate in the proposed Academic and Student Affairs Committee. Chair Sharpe noted that the board also participated in an assessment of the president. She thanked President Randhawa for his help in designing the mini assessment that allowed for broader feedback from the campus community and the off campus community.

Trustee Franklin provided the highlights of the president’s performance review. He noted that the feedback was very consistent from those that participated in the assessment. Franklin said that President Randhawa is seen as an advocate of student success, is genuinely empathetic and brings a multi-cultural perspective to conversations. Franklin added that President Randhawa is seen as being engaged outside of Western and is building good rapport in Olympia which advances the reputation of Western and its leadership. He also acknowledged his work managing the strategic planning process and the business plan that will follow. Trustee Franklin reported the five goals that President Randhawa has set for the 2017-2018 academic year:

- Complete the strategic plan
- Increase retention and graduation rates, and eliminate achievement gaps for all sub-groups of students
- Increase faculty and student diversity
- Develop a business plan to accompany the strategic plan
- Work with the board of trustees and his administration to advance best practices for leadership governance.

Trustee Franklin concluded that the Board of Trustees is recommending that President Randhawa receive a 2.3% salary increase based on the performance review. Franklin explained that the recent legislative session appropriated funds for this purpose and the amount of that proposed increase maintains parity with Western’s executive staff who recently received an increase in the same amount.

MOTION 10-05-2017 Trustee Lee MOVED that the Board of Trustees of Western Washington University, upon the recommendation of the Board Chair, approves a 2.3% increase in the President’s salary, including sums consistent with legislative appropriations since July 1, 2017, and authorizes Trustee Chase Franklin to negotiate the terms of a contract addendum and the Chair to execute the contract addendum on behalf of the Board of Trustees.

The motion passed.
10. NEW PEER INSTITUTION LIST

Provost Carbajal introduced Brian Burton, Vice Provost for Academic Affairs and Paqui Paredes Mendez, Professor of Modern and Classic Languages, who co-chair the Strategic Planning Committee. Carbajal explained that President Randhawa charged the committee with establishing a new peer institution list that would help drive establishing stretch goals for the institution.

Burton and Paredes Mendez described the process of selecting the current list of peer institutions. The process included defining aspirational peers, consolidating the list based on criteria that was established by the strategic planning committee as outlined in the submitted materials. Burton explained that the list started at over a thousand schools and was narrowed down to a group of seventeen. He noted that the chosen criteria were in areas in which Western wants to improve and includes graduation rates, freshman retention, value of endowment assets, scholarships/grants per student, graduation rates for minority students, student to faculty ratio, student to staff ratio and percentage of international students. Burton said the final step in the process was identifying aspirational peers which included schools that were performing better that Western on at least seven of the fifteen criteria included in the submitted materials, and were performing better in multiple ways including resources, inclusivity, student success and international students.

Trustee Overstreet inquired as to what the next steps would be in this process. Burton explained that the list would be incorporated into the strategic plan and that the full plan would be presented to the board in December.

Chair Sharpe thanked the panel for their presentation and noted that it was helpful for understanding the next steps in the strategic planning process.

11. INTERNATIONAL STUDENTS INITIATIVE

Provost Carbajal provided an overview for the board on an initiative designed to help Western not only to increase its international student enrollment, but also to broadly benefit the student experience that Western fosters. He said that the benefits of this public-private partnership are far reaching and impactful. Carbajal noted that there has been good progress on this initiative in some areas but not in other areas such as percentage of international student enrollment and the percentage of Western students that study abroad. He expressed the need to continue to expand diversity, culture and a global perspective. Carbajal said that it is important that Western graduates leave university able to participate as a global citizen.

Carbajal explained that Western has entered into a partnership with a company called Study Group, a global leader in international student recruitment and on campus pathways student success programming. He said that through its global recruiting network, Study Group will help Western reach well qualified perspective students in more than one hundred and fifty countries worldwide. On campus, Study Group will help Western serve the needs of this group of international students by providing a program of student support services built around and integrated with Western’s existing Intensive English Program (IEP.) Carbajal said that this enhanced program will be known as the Western Global Pathway. Students in the program will be Western students and the program itself will be under the university’s oversight and control. The Study Group partner will integrate their own programming and student services into Western’s existing structures.

Carbajal said that pathway students are regularly admissible students admitted to the university on a conditional basis because their English fluency might be insufficient. Pathway students spend their first year, the Pathway year, in a special program to gain the required proficiency for full admission, participate in classes designed to help them understand the expectations of United States higher education, assimilate into life and culture, and complete some first year course work. Upon completing the first year program successfully, students are fully admitted to the university and transition into the general student population. Carbajal noted that similar pathway partnerships at other major universities have proven to enhance campus diversity, improve international student retention and graduation, and contribute to the universities international presence. He said that Study Group is one of the oldest and largest organizations in this highly specialized field and that the joint venture with Western will be an entirely self-supporting initiative. Western will not be required to make any upfront investments, and Study Group will provide the start up financing. Once operational, the partnership is expected to generate a significant annual surplus that the university will be able to use to invest in needs associated with student success.

President Randhawa added that the intention is to start small to ensure Western has the support structure that is needed. He estimated that the first year would begin with approximately seventy-five students, adding that the targeted success rate for students in the first year is ninety percent. Randhawa also noted that the program provides Western the opportunity to invest in increased student success by adding additional resources. Randhawa also said that Study Group would not enter into a partnership with another institution in the state of Washington, so Western would not be competing with other institutions.

12. AUDIT COMMITTEE REPORT

Trustee Overstreet welcomed Trustee Meyer to the Audit Committee and reported that Trustee Lee will transition from the Audit Committee to the Governance Committee. Overstreet reported that the Audit Committee discussed expanding its responsibilities to include Enterprise Risk Management and Finance and said that those responsibilities would be outlined in the updated charter and work plan which will be presented to the Board of Trustees in December.

Trustee Overstreet said that the Audit Committee met with representatives from the State Auditor’s Office for their Entrance Conference and that the office will be preparing the FY2017 financial statement audit. Overstreet said the estimated cost for the FY2017 is $51,000.00 which reflects a reduction based on efficiencies found in the FY2016 audit. Overstreet thanked Business and Financial Affairs for their work that contributed to the reduction in estimated cost. He also noted that the committee was provided an update on the work of the Enterprise Risk Management committee and expect to have feedback from the committee at the December Audit Committee meeting with the intent to have a presentation ready for the Board of Trustees at the February meeting.
