7. BOARD CHAIR REPORT

Board Chair Earl Overstreet provided the following report: “Last year at a reception for the Associated Students board and Trustees one of the AS officers asked me what qualifications the Trustees have to make decisions about Western. It was a great question! I explained how our diverse professional and community expertise fits well with our oversight, stewardship, and foresight responsibilities. I also explained that we take advantage of various opportunities to participate in conferences and seminars to improve our skills and learn new ones in order serve Western as effectively as we can.

This past April a contingent from Western, including a number of trustees attending the Association of Governing Boards (AGB) National Conference on Trusteeship. I would like Trustees Pettis, Sharpe, and West to share their takeaways from the National Conference.”

Trustee Pettis highlighted that she was grateful to attend the AGB National Conference and have the opportunity to interact with trustees from across the nation. She noted that she gained valuable knowledge attending a workshop on best practices for board members and decision making by boards. She noted that the workshop provided practical tips on thinking outside the narrow track that boards typically function within, what to listen for during board meetings, how to make best make decisions and how to ensure sure the board is listening broadly to all viewpoints.

Trustee Sharpe reported that among her most important takeaways was a reminder that the issues Western faces with diversity, equity, and inclusion are a common theme across the nation at higher education institutions. She noted that as a trustee there is an opportunity to create changes for the greater good and emphasized the need to protect the University of tomorrow from the urgency of today. Another profound takeaway was the reminder that a trustee's role is to protect the students and the integrity of the University, and to introduce new modes of thinking into their oversight and foresight responsibilities. She concluded her report with a quote from the Michael Abrams, Vice President of Innovations at Walt Disney Company, who was a key note speaker at the conference: "Your experience and expertise is your biggest barrier to creativity".

Trustee West reported that she attended sessions addressing student wellbeing, food insecurity, homelessness, and mental health. She said that the purpose of the session was to gain clarity about the legal and ethical responsibility of institutions serving students under these circumstances, which prompted illuminating conversations with other institutions' trustees and regents on their best practices and strategies.

Trustee Overstreet continued, "The Institute for Board Leaders and Chief Executives of Public Universities and Systems was held in conjunction with the National Conference on Trusteeship. I attended the Institute with Sabah. We were one of seven teams representing universities and university systems from all over the United States. We learned from lectures, networking, and team activities. We had time to reflect on the challenges and opportunities identified through the Western Strategic Planning process and how we could improve our teamwork in support of Western's mission.

One of my action items from the Institute was related to Board assessments. We have done assessments in the past, but not as regularly as our Presidential assessments. I am looking forward to our September Work Session which will include a Board assessment, discussion about higher education trends and challenges, and President Randhawa's review. The session will even include homework. We passed out copies of "A Very Human Future" as summer reading material for the trustees.

I've saved the best part of my report for the end, and that's recognizing the service of Trustee Citlaly Ramirez as she finishes her term on the Board. The academic year goes very fast. Just as we get to know the student trustee and integrate their unique skills and perspective into the Board, they move on to another chapter in their lives. When she joined the Board last August, I noticed Citlaly's poise, confidence, and preparedness. Over the course of the year I was further impressed by her thoughtful questions, and the many-sided perspective she brought to our discussions.

Western's student trustees are always a tremendous asset to the Board, and deepen our understanding of the institution, its mission, and what it's like to be here as a student today. Citlaly was particularly skilled in identifying and communicating these things, and we are grateful for her service. And, since you aren't graduating yet, we hope to see you on campus this fall before you graduate and head off to what we are sure is very bright future." Chair Overstreet asked Trustee West to read the resolution and make the motion.

Trustee West moved that the Board of Trustees approve Resolution 2019-02 Recognizing the Service of Board Member Citlaly Ramirez.

The motion passed.

The trustee unanimously thanked Trustee Ramirez for her service and wished her well on her future endeavors.

8. UNIVERSITY PRESIDENT REPORT

President Randhawa thanked Trustee Ramirez for her service as a trustee and her insights over the past year. He also thanked McNeel Jantzen, Faculty Senate President, and Millka Solomon, Associated Students (AS) President for their service over the past year and the opportunity to work with them in their leadership roles.

President Randhawa expressed his thoughts on the close of the academic year and how it inspired him to share a story of human resilience and the message it holds for us today. Noémi Ban was a long time resident of Bellingham who passed away earlier this month at the age of 96. Noémi was a holocaust survivor, she and her family were sent to the Auschwitz concentration camp where she lost family members, but survived. He said that she and her husband immigrated to the United States from Hungary in the 1950's. Over the past twenty-five years, Ban became an educator about the horrors of the Holocaust so we can all learn from history and promoted a message of hope and tolerance. He noted that she earned several Honorary Doctorate degrees including one from Western. Randhawa expressed his appreciation for the time that he and Uzma were able to spend getting to know her and learn from her experiences. He added that he regarded her as a community elder, someone so full of wisdom and compassion no matter when or where you met her. He emphasized that given Ban's dreadful experience during the Holocaust, it could have been easy for her to become bitter and vindictive about humanity, but rather Ban embraced life, love, compassion and understanding. Randhawa reflected that these traits are in short supply these days, whether in our local dialogues or at the national level. He closed by highlighting that Noémi Ban's life is a wonderful reminder to all of us that it does not have to be that way.

9. FACULTY SENATE REPORT

McNeel Jantzen, Faculty Senate President expressed appreciation for the collaborative work of the past year in her role as Faculty Senate President. She noted that the faculty, employees of the state of Washington, are truly at the heart of Western and without them it would be lifeless without, mind, body and soul. She stated that in the Faculty Senate Handbook, Section 11.b.1, it is the policy of Western Washington University that there shall be meaningful participation by the faculty through the Faculty Senate or other recognized faculty bodies in matters relating to university academics, budget, planning and policy at all levels of internal university governance. This is consistent with the university policy of open participation in governance. The Faculty Senate is empowered to speak and act for the faculty with responsibility in areas of curriculum, academic programs, scholarly activities, the education of students, the mission of the university, and institutional and administrative effectiveness. McNeel noted that the Faculty Senate is comprised of the senate, ten senate standing and ad hoc sub-committees, nine college governance committees, and nine college curriculum committees. She thanked the hundreds of dedicated faculty members for their countless hours of service on those committee and in their departments. She added that the Faculty Senate continued to uphold the tenets of faculty governance including shared governance between the administration and faculty of Western. She added that these efforts brought about positive change to leadership and ensured fair and equitable representation of and leadership by, faculty committees.

McNeel reported that in the past academic year the linguistics program transitioned to become a new, independent academic department; that a new academic minor in Holocaust and Genocide Studies was created; and that a college governance council for the graduate school was created as well. She emphasized that at the root of this tremendous academic growth are the dedicated and tenacious faculty of Western. She said Western must continue to support the faculty so that they continue to endeavor, to think about, develop, create, expand, grow and nurture invaluable opportunities for Western students.

McNeel stated that the university, the union, and the Faculty Senate agree that academic freedom is essential to the mission of the University and that providing an environment of free and honest inquiry is essential to its functioning. Academic freedom as defined by the Collective Bargaining Agreement between UFWW and the University is the freedom to discuss all relevant matters in the classroom, explore all avenues of scholarship, research and creative expression and to speak or write as a public citizen without institutional discipline or restraint on matters of public concern as well as on issues related to professional duties and the functioning of the University. She added that all efforts should be made to be accurate and to show respect for the opinions of others and to make clear that individuals do not speak on behalf of the institution unless specifically designated to do so. She concluded that academic responsibility implies the faithful performance of academic duties and obligation and recognition of the demands of the scholarly enterprise.

10. ASSOCIATED STUDENTS REPORT

Millka Solomon, Associated Students President, thanked everyone for a successful year. She reported that in the fall of 2019 the Associated Students (AS) Constitution was updated to reflect the addition of the new AS Student Senate led by Senate Pro-Tempore, Levi Eckman, who was also in attendance. Solomon noted that changes have been made to the Executive Board in regards to restructuring (e.g., the Senate Pro-Tempore now replaces the AS VP for Academic Affairs position). She added the Multicultural Center has had its soft opening and that it will be in full use at the beginning of the 2019-2020 academic year.

Eckman provided the board with an update on the accomplishments of the newly formed Student Senate. He noted that the Student Senate held its first election of student senators which included sixty students running for positions in nine colleges, and that it passed four resolutions intended to help improve the quality of life for students at Western. Eckman reported that students sat on over forty-five campus committees, including with voting privileges on college curriculum committees. He noted that a new Senate Pro-Tempore has been elected for the upcoming academic year for the first full year of the student senate.

11. FINANCE, AUDIT AND ENTERPRISE RISK MANAGEMENT COMMITTEE REPORT

Trustee John M. Meyer, Committee Chair, reported that the Finance, Audit and Enterprise Risk Management (FARM) Committee discussed guidelines for institutional reserves that will be presented as a discussion item later in the meeting. He also reported the Minority and Women's Business Enterprises Inclusion Plan is being finalized and will be ready for full board presentation at an upcoming regular meeting. Trustee Meyer noted there was also a presentation on the draft University Compliance program that included an implementation timeline which will be presented to the board at an upcoming regular meeting. He said the Clery final report will be available in the near future for board review and that progress had been made with the management recommendations. He said that the committee was provided an update on a future bond authorization that will allow for expansion of student housing that will be presented at the August meeting of the Board of Trustees. He concluded his report by noting that the FARM Committee will be conducting a self-assessment to evaluate performance at the sub-committee level.

12. STUDENT SUCCESS COMMITTEE REPORT

Trustee Mo West, Committee Chair, reported that the Student Success Committee was provided a presentation from the Counseling, Health and Wellness Services group on the wellness programs currently in place and how Western is responding to mental health concerns that are on the rise. She also noted that Western will be welcoming a new Executive Director for Counseling, Health and Wellness in July. Trustee West added that there are many opportunities for students who are seeking support within the Counseling, Health and Wellness Center. She reiterated that the trustees are very supportive of the work that is conducted to support the mental health of Western students, and see this as an essential component of achieving the student success goals laid out in the strategic plan.

Trustee Overstreet announced a ten minute break at 10:31 am and the board reconvened at 10:41 am.

13. LEGISLATIVE SESSION AND CAPITAL BUDGET REQUEST

Becca Kenna Schenk, Executive Director of Government Relations provided an overview of the recently concluded Legislative Session, and noted that it could be summarized as simply “historic” for higher education, particularly through H.B. 2158. She noted that H.B. 2158, sponsored by Representative Drew Hansen and co-sponsored by outgoing speaker of the House, Frank Chopp, raises a significant amount of new revenue and creates a new dedicated fund for state expenditures in higher education that includes a budget of over billion dollars over the course of the next four years. She said that the idea was to create recession proof funding for higher education and it will fully fund the state need grant which is now known as Washington College Grant. Kenna-Schenk thanked the trustees for their involvement in advocating for higher education during this past legislative session.

Regarding the Capital Budget appropriation for Western, Richard Van Den Hul, Vice President for Business and Financial Affairs reported the funding for the Interdisciplinary Science building was approved along with the predesign and partial design funding for the Electrical Engineering/Computer Science Building. He noted that remaining funding was appropriated for upgrades, preservation, modernizing and maintain current facilities and infrastructure throughout campus.

14. WATERFRONT UPDATE

Donna Gibbs, Vice President for University Relations and Marketing provided an update on the collaborative efforts with the Port of Bellingham with regard to redevelopment of the Waterfront. At this stage the vision for the project is a Public/Private Partnership model that will ideally provide a mix of private sector industries and developers, public agencies, and multi-institutional higher education presence, as well as residential, retail, and recreational spaces in other parts of the development. She noted the goal is to have a set of facilities that will expand employer base, provide opportunities for applied learning, integrated research at the graduate and undergraduate level, and create desirable jobs for graduates that stay in the area. She noted that Brad Johnson, Dean, College of Science and Engineering has introduced Port of Bellingham personnel to the senior leadership of a Seattle based naval architecture and marine engineering services firm which may facilitate opportunities in collaborative research and internships for undergraduates, and potentially create post-graduate employment opportunities from Western's electrical engineering program. She added that the company has shown interest in the possibility of locating a fabrication facility on the Bellingham waterfront, further expanding employment potential. She reported the Port of Bellingham leadership has had initial meetings with the company executive leadership and Dean Johnson to explore these possibilities.

Gibbs explained that a Waterfront Working Group, composed of several representatives from the Port and Provost Carbajal, Dean Johnson and herself representing Western, is drafting framework that includes a vision statement, guiding principles, and initial strategies. She added that next steps will be to develop a detailed narrative that will replace the development plan that the university shared in June 2018. She concluded that working group is planning to present the new framework to the Board of Trustees and the Port of Bellingham Commissioners in August.

15. GUIDELINES ON INSTITUTIONAL RESERVES

Linda Teater, Director, Budget Office, provided the board with a historical review of the relationship between Western's Institutional Reserves and Contingency Funds and the rationale supporting the recommended reserve guidelines. She noted that reserves are held to mitigate risks due to items such as recessions, downturns in enrollment, or major unplanned issues. She explained that unplanned situations may include cost overruns on capital projects, emergent needs without a timely revenue source, or a natural disaster. She reported that it has been Western's practice to hold one-time reserves sufficient to fully cover Western's operating expenses (including payroll, utilities, and other services) for one quarter.

Richard Van Den Hul, Vice President for Business and Financial Affairs, led a discussion on what is an appropriate reserve level for Western from the perspective of the Board of Trustees including how best to balance security against short-term emergency with progress toward long-term strategic goals. He suggested that maintaining the un-expendable (recurring) reserves between 10% and an amount equivalent to one quarter's worth of tuition. This would be calculated on the current year's state/tuition funded budget and will be calculated each year after the approval of the annual operating budget, the issuance of the audited financial statements and included in the regular financial reports to the Board of Trustees. He also noted the the expendable reserves will be maintained on two levels – committee and uncommitted. He said that the expendable (one-time) reserves are intended to provide a source of funding for situations such as significant non-recurring expenses, asset renewal and replacement, and investment for start-up strategic initiatives that will build long-term financial capacity. It was determined that the President will notify the Board of Trustees when planning to use reserves in excess of the current amount designated as Expendable Reserves. He said that this information will be provided to the Finance, Audit and Enterprise Risk Management (FARM) Committee that will include an explanation of progress to restore the Un-expendable Reserves to the target minimum amount, if required.

16. 2019-2020 OPERATING BUDGET AND RELATED MATTERS

He noted that the tuition fees in the budget include both the tuition operating fee and the capital building fee for each category of student. Carbajal additionally requested that the board approve the recommended mandatory fee increases and revenue distributions of the Service & Activities Fee for academic year 2019-2020 and summer 2019.
